

The once small village of Frisco has reached, perhaps, adolescence. Its mother, the railroad, hardly recognizes her child. But, what of the future? The City's Master Plan says when Frisco develops fully into its 69 square miles, it may house as many as 350,000 people."

... and you are part of the fabric of Frisco.

In 2027 Frisco turns 125 years young. The Heritage Association of Frisco has teamed up with the City of Frisco to chronicle the tremendous growth of our city since it celebrated its centennial in 2002.

Our goal is to add to the history of Frisco documented in “Frisco: The First One Hundred Years” with a new book called “Frisco: Second Century—The Boom Years, 2002-2027.”

We invite you to partner with us to record Frisco’s 21st century story.
